SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTISTS.

National Reform and Sunday Law Movements Strongly Opposed.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. KOKOMO, Ind., Sept. 20 .- The camp-meeting to-day has followed the regular programme. The children's meetings, conducted by Mrs. Jessie Waggoner, are an interesting feature of the camp. The young people meet in their own, tent, their teachers being the only adults present. Instruction suited to their years and mental advancement is given them, and their thoughts led into practical lines of unaffected Christian feeling and experience. The parents also have their especial meetings and the two supplement each other.

At the conference meeting this forenoon a set of resolutions was offered which elicited considerable discussion upon the questions of religious legislation and the best methods of presenting them to the minds of the people.

The discourses of E. J. Waggoner, of the American Sentinel, who is speaking daily upon the progress and animus of the "National Reform" movement, are attracting considerable attention. In his discourse last evening he severely arraigned the principles upon which the National Reform party and the American Sabbath Union are founded as organizations, and characterized the whole movement as unconsciously, yet essentially, in fact, anti-Christian, and denied positively that apposition to it was denied positively that opposition to it was directed against anything but an anti-Christian principle. He traced the origin and progress of the movement for religious legislation from its inception up to the present time, and gave its objects, clearly, in the learning of the present time, and gave its objects, clearly, in the learning of the learni on the language of its originators and sup-porters. He showed that if they meant what they said their definition of "atheism" was simply a disregard of Sun-day, and that this limited view was sup-ported by the zealous effort which they are making to so change the constitution as to afford a basis for Sunday legislation. The methods which have been used in perpetuating national reform ideas and in forwarding its work were analyzed with ref-erence to the principle involved. The bills brought before the last Congress were referred to, and their intent and purpose shown. He declared that it made not the slightest difference what day was selected slightest difference what day was selected for the government to legislate upon. The keeping of a Sabbath is something enjoined in the fourth commandment, and in that alone. But this would be asking the State to decide what are works of religion and what are not, and in making this decision it would necessarily pass upon questions of a religious nature, and so step out of the authority of the State. The purpose of Sunday legislation is to cause the day to be devoted to religious worship. That makes it religious legious legislations is to cause the day to be devoted to religious worship. That makes it religious legislations ious worship. That makes it religious leg-islation. The speaker quoted a number of statements of speakers and writers promi-nent in the Sunday-law movement, wherein they spoke repeatedly of re-enacting the fourth commandment, and characterized the idea as nothing short of blasphemous irreverence, although not intended irreverently—just as though the laws of God to be re-enacted by man to force. While this movement proposes to be a movement to secure the recognition of Christianity, it is stamped upon the face of it as anti-Chris-tian and opposed to God, whether they mean it or not. The lectures upon this subject are to be continued during the session of the camp-

At the conference, during the day, the following officers were elected for the coming year: F. D. Starr, president of the conference; W. A. Young, secretary; Dr. William Hill, treasurer; F. D. Starr, O. H. Oberholtzer, N. Y. Kaubh, J. M. Ries and Victor Thompson, executive committee. The officers of the Sabbath-school Association have been elected as follows: J. M. Rees, president; C. M. Shortridge, vice-president; Allie Craig, secretary and treasurer; S. C. Sadler and W. F. Redding, execntive committee.

tention to this omission of duty, and while complimenting Rev. D. P. Roberts, of Richmond, and Rev. James Simpson, of Bloomington, for their interest and support of church Interature, he appealed to the ministers to do their duty in this respect, which would increase the power of the church and its means for commanding the respectful attention of the Christian public. Rev. James Simpson called attention to a resolution passed at the previous con-ference, which requires each charge, in proportion to its member-ship, to bring a certain amount of contingent money to support the conference. The ministers seem to have forgotten their obligations, as the call of the roll disclosed that nearly all of them had made returns below their respective assessments.

The bishop required the deficiency to be supplemented from the private funds of the preachers, much to the amusement of the Bishop Brown made some very interesting remarks on the progress of the African Methodist Episcopal Church and its influence in developing negro manhood. He felt that the time had come for action on the part of his oppressed people. The Bishop read the following telegrams to indicate that the Michigan Conference was alive to the importance of action: To the President, Washington, D. C., Benjamin Harthe hour of adjournment arrived, and the conference closed its morning session.

Yesterday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, Rev. Jason Bundy, presiding elder of the Indianapolis district, preached the conference missionary sermon from Daniel ii, 44:

"And in the days of these kings shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom which God of heaven set up a kingdom, which shall never be destroyed." The discourse was a forcible one, and did the subject and the speaker justice.

Last night the conference missionary congregation, which was addressed by Rev. Alexander Smith, of Terre Haute; Rev. John W. Stanton, of Spencer, and Rev. R. H. Felton, of Washington, Ind. The speakers related very forcibly what the church is doing in Africa and in Hayti through missionary channels, and appealed for support of home and foreign missionary opera-

The third day's session of the conference commenced this morning. Dr. D. P. Rev. T. E. Wilson, of New Albany, was designated to respond on behalf of the conference to the fraternal sentiments uttered, which he did in a very animated strain. Rev. Jason Bundy, presiding elder of the Indianapolis district, presented his annual report; and after referring to the deaths in families of Rev. D. P. Roberts and R. Mc-Daniel, reported the reorganization of the Sunday-schools at Thompsontown and at New Castle; that the district conference assembled at Muncie, where it was a blessing to the pastor and members; that the members and ministers pledged themselves to make the presiding elders system a success, and that they observed their obligations: that he attended eighty quarterly meetings and conferences, that the membership in the district is 1,823, with 37 Sabbath-schools, 1.289 teachers and pupils, 19 missionary societies, 12 literary societies, 35 churches and 17 parsonages; that the presiding elder received as support, $789.62; that, in the Indianapolis district. during the past year, $7,128.97 has been paid to pastors; that $429.08 of dollar money has been collected, a tax of $1 on each member: that the amount paid to pastors over the previous year is $1,609.35 the amount collected over the previous year, for all purposes, is $3,295.01; that two churches have been built in the district; that one house has been bought and constructed into a church at New Castle: that churches are in course of erection at Greenfield and Greenville, and one parsonage at Muncie has been built. The report was very encouraging, and and showed the district to be in a good working condition. The moral and ministerial characters of the members were examined, and all were found blameless in life and conversation except H. H. Thompson, presiding elder of the Evansville district; A. Mason, of Seymour, and James F. Ferguson, of Rockville, Bishop Brown decided that local deacons who receive an appointment and are in active service in the itineracy, are not to be rated as local deacons; but are deacons entitled to all the privileges and to exercise all the functions of traveling deacons. Noted Patent Suit Outlawed.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—In the somewhat noted case of Augustus I. Ambler against Rodney M. Whipple, for infringement of patent, the defendant has finally triumphed by taking advantage of the statute of limitations. Ambler got judgment against Whipple in Washington, D. C., June 17, 1880, for $600,000. The amount now involved, including interest, is over $1,200,-000. This judgment was never satisfied, Whipple moving to Chicago and locating all his property here. July 17, 1885. Ambler commenced suit in the Circuit Court of Cook county to recover on the judgment, and when the case was tried before Judge Clifford it was decided in his favor. A motion for a new trial was made, and on account of technical error was allowed.
Wednesday before Judge Grinnell the defendants pleaded that the plaintiffs had lost their remedy, the statute of limitations providing that suit must be brought within five years. The plaintiffs brought evidence to show that the statute did not apply to Whipple, who had resided outside of the State of Illinois for an entire winter. The court in deciding for the defendant held that it had been clearly shown that Whipple was a resident of Illinois.

Chinese Slave Traffic in San Francisco. SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 20.—In the face of the exclusion act the importation of Chinamen is increasing largely. The Gallic, Wednesday, brought 169, besides the em-bassy. Of these, twenty-four were women, who will be landed on writs of habeas corous as the wives of merchants. They are, however, nothing of the sort, but, it is said, are brought here for immoral purposes, and the collector will make a strong objection to their landing. The Chinese slave traffic is a growing business. Girls are bought from their parents for from $100 to $300, on the promise that they will be brought here and married. On their arrival they pass | Merrill Company. through the babeas corpus mill, and are disposed of for $1,500 or $2,000, and placed in disreputable houses. The collector of the port says he will try to stop this traffic if he has to go into court himself.

Policeman's Murderer Hanged. MOORHEAD, Minn., Sept. 20.-Thomas Brown was hung here this morning for the murder of policeman Powell, on the night of Oct. 17, 1888. The drop fell a few min-utes after 4 A. M. Brown faced death brave-ly, and died without a struggle. This was the second legal execution under the new State law, which prescribes that the con-demned shall be hung at night; that no newspaper representatives shall be present. and that the newspapers shall not publish the details of hangings. All the twin-city papers published full accounts of Brown's

RECENT PUBLICATIONS.

Mr. Crawford's Latest. When Mr. Crawford gave the world "Saracinesca" he put forth his first novel in the full modern sense of the word. He had been hitherto a writer of very remarkable stories, but in this his portraiture and "settings" commanded more interest than his plot, and he demonstrated the fact that his ability as a painter of men and life exceeded even his ingenuity as a story-teller. The old Prince, Giovanni, Carona and Astrardente were splendid studies, and even such sketched-in characters as Donna Tullia Mayer, Del Ferice and the inn-keeping cousin were inspired with the breath of life and left their individuality im pressed upon the reader. At the same time the pictures of Roman patrician life were strong, vivid and artistically drawn, and declared by those who knew from their own observation to be pe-Culiarly true.

Nobody realized the success of this book better than the author himself, and, like Thackeray, having once created a group of such interesting flesh-and-blood people, he is loath to let them die. In "Sant' Ilario" we find everybody who was worth knowing in "Saracinesca," with a few new people admitted to the exclusive circle; and some of our old friends whom we knew but slightly, or met by chance in "Saracinesca," brought into the center of action and developed into clean-cut and well-rounded characters. Particularly is this true of the other Giovanni Saracinesca, the gigantic inn-keeper, who has lost his wife, acquired wealth, and comes to Rome to resume his proper place in the world under the title of the Marchese de San Giacinto. In "Sant' Ilario" he proves to be one of Crawford's strongest creations. Anastasi Gonache, whom we met in his studio, as a rising young artist of socialistic proclivities, has become a papal zouave, and is used in "Sant' Ilaria" as the hero of a little love story, the recipient of all the physical wounds the exigencies of the plot require, and as the innocent cause of Sant' Ilaria's (Giovanni's) hot jealousy of Corona. In fact, the light-headed Gonache proves himself very valuable for general purposes, and plays his part without com-

The novel runs along for considerable intervals without any plot to speak of in terest being absorbed by the psycological study of the play of jealousy upon the noble natures of Sant' Ilaria and Corona, of the struggle between family pride and the sense of justice in the old Prince, of love in the young heart of Faustina, of San Giacinto's strong character and nobility of soul, and by the vivid glimpses of the patrician society of Rome just at the breaking up of the Papal regime by the triumphs of the Garibaldians. Then at times events come with a rush, and the story becomes as thrilling as any Mr. Crawford has told. Taken all through, "Sant' Ilario" is a worthy sequel of "Saracinesca." and what the book loses in freshness of character and plot it more than regains in the interest attaching to old associations, and the curiosity we all have to know the after life of characters we have learned to like. The book is published by McMillan & Co., New York and London.

Other New Books. "The Modern Chess Instructor," by W. Steinitz, is the first part of what is intended to be a comprehensive work on chess. The anthor is known as one of its foremost champions. This volume contains elementary explanations for beginners, the description of notations, an essay on the principles of the game and analyses of six popular openings, etc. Following these are the games of the contest between Messrs. Steinitz and Tschigorin, played at Havana, in January and February, 1889, with annotations by Stemitz. The author says in the preface to this work that its chief purport is the theoretical application of new principles, and of the reasoning by analogies of positions which have been his guide in practice during the last twenty years. Cloth, $1.50. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons; Indianapolis: Bowen-Merrill Com-

"Bluebird Notes" is the title given to a volume of poems by Ira Billman. The poems are all short, and there are nearly 150 of them, on a variety of topics. They reveal an amiable character and a vein of genial and gentle thought, but not a high degree of poetic talent. The volume is beautifully printed on heavy calandered paper, and it will be safe, ennobling and helpful in any family. The author need not conceal the fact that he is a Congregational minister, settled in "the land of steady habits." Ornamental cloth, $1.50. New York: Funk & Wagnalls; Indianapolis: Bowen-Merrill Company.

"Wheat and Tares," a novel, by Graham Clayton, is a very readable story. The scene is laid in the South, covering a period beginning shortly before the civil war and extending until after the close. The story deals with Southern scenes and Southern character during that period, and the author seems to have aimed to give a true and faithful account of the condition of the people during those eventful years. The descriptions of Southern, life and character are no doubt very good, and the story pos-sessess an interest of its own. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott Company; Indian-apolis: Bowen-Merrill Company.

"Seven Thousand Words Often Mispronounced" is a valuable guide to correct prohunciation. The compiler, Wm. Henry Phyfe, is an authority on pronunciation. and this work is a very complete handbook of difficult and doubtful words in that line. Its value is increased by the large number of proper names and words from foreign languages in common use, of which it gives the correct pronunciation. Cloth, $1.25. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons; Indianapolis: Bowen-Merrill Company.

"Tales of Heinrich Zschokke," a standard German writer of the last century. are published in the series of "Knickerbocker Nuggets." The volume conmost characteristic short stories. They are translated from the German by Mr. Parke Godwin. The volume is bound in uniform style with the others of this beautiful series. Ornamental cloth, 75 cents. New York: G. P. Putnam's Sons; In-dianapolis: Bowen-Merrill Company.

There is not much new to be said about Mexico, but descriptions of the country and people seem to have a permanent attraction. "The Land of the Montezumas." by Cora H. Crawford, is a well-written narrative of travel to some out-of-the-way places in that country, and presents some interesting phases of American life and character, though there are some passages that savor of the guide-book or encyclopedia. New York: John B. Alden.

"Backgammon and Draughts" is a treatise on those two games, of which the latter is better known by its popular name. "checkers." This little volume embraces G. F. Pardon's complete work and many valuable parts of Andrew Anderson's "Checkers." It will be found interesting by the votaries of both games. Board covers. 50 cents. New York: Frederick A Stokes & Bros.: Indianapolis: Bowen-

"Silos, Ensilage and Silage," by Manly Mills, is a practical treatise on the ensilage of fodder corn. It contains in brief compass a comprehensive review of the entire subject of preserving green fodder in air-tight pits, a thoroughly scientific treatise on fermentation, and tells how to build a sile, how to raise the corn, and how to ensilage it. It is a valuable book for dairymen and farmers. Cloth, 50 cents; sent by mail postpaid. New York: Orange Judd

"Great Words from Great Americans." is a collection of notable papers or addresses, beginning with the Declaration of Independence and closing with Lincoln's Gettysburg. There are two addresses of Washington and two of Lincoln. The plan of the work is not very comprehensive. but the selections are good as far as they go. Cloth. 75 cents. New York; G. P. Putnam's Sons; Indianapolis; Bowen-Mer-

"The Thoughts of the Emperor Marcus Aurelius Antoninus," translated by George peror. In addition to his writings, which are full of fine thoughts and noble sentiments, there is a biographical sketch of artists, and will form handsome holiday ments, there is a biographical sketch of him and an exposition of his philosophy. Boston: Little, Brown & Co.; Indianapolis: Bowen-Merrill Company.

"Random Shots at Living Targets," by H. W. Holley, author of "The Politicians," is s book that was evidently written to produce conviction. It illustrates and elaborates the elements involved in the temperance reform with great vigor and considerable ingenuity. The author is a Prohibitionist, and everything is made to bend to that policy. New York: Funk & Wagnalls. Cloth, $1.

"Christianity and Agnosticism" embraces papers on different sides of the controversy by Henry Mace, D. D., Professor Huxley, the Bishop of Peterborough, W. H. Mallock and Mrs. Humphrey Ward, author of "Robert Elsmere." They trayerse a wide field of religious discussion. Paper, 50 cents. New York: D. Appleton & Co.; Indianapolis: Bowen-Merrill Company.

"Rebekah," by M. P. Jones, is a novel whom scene is laid in Rome and Jerusalem near the beginning of the Christian era. The characters, partly Romans and partly Jews, some of the latter being biblical characters, are drawn with considerable force, while the story, based on historical events, possesses a fair degree of interest.

New York: John B. Alden.

"A Nameless Wrestler," by Josephine W. Bates, author of "A Blind Lead," is a bright, wholesome and well-written novel, with a strong flavor of Western life. It is published in the American Novel series by the G. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia. Paper, 50 cents.

"Numbers Universalized," is an advanced algebra, by Prof. D. M. Sensenig. It is intended as a text-book for High-schools, and is published in the mathematical series of D. Appleton & Co., New York.

CurrenI Periodicals. The Art Interchange is not only a great aid to amateur artists, with its excellent designs and minute directions for treatment, but contains an immense amount of information relating to all forms of bousehold art. A special feature is the detailed directions for furnishing, arrangement of colors, etc., given in reply to inquiries. The issue of Sept. 14 has a fine colored study of a Percheron horse, a landscape in crayon, a design for a brass tray and several designs for china decoration. Published semi-monthly at 37 West Twenty-second street, New York.

The New England Magazine (Boston) has passed under new editorial control, and has taken a new lease of life. It is now conducted by Rev. Edward Everett Hale and Mr. Edwin D. Mead. It is devoted especially to New England life, thought and history. The first issue of the new series is largely give ap to Plymouth and the history of the Pilgrims. A contribution of general interest is a biographical sketch, with por-trait, of Edward Bellamy, author of "Lookng Backward."

The Quiver, an illustrated magazine "for Sunday and general reading," is an English publication reprinted by Cassell & Co., which has no exact counterpart among American periodicals. It contains articles of a religious character by well-known English clergymen, fiction of high moral tone, Scripture lessons, music, notes of Christian life and work in all fields, etc. Typographically, it is neat and attractive.

The English Illustrated Magazine, Cassell & Co., is not as profusely illustrated as some of the American monthlies, but none of the latter have work more artistic. The head and tail pieces in the English periodical are alone a study. "Saint Ilario" by Marion Crawford, which has been running as a serial, is finished in the September number. Grant Allen has an interesting paper on Glen Conway in

The bi-monthly issue of Dress for September and October contains an article on ancient and modern porcelains with representations of the distinctive marks on the various wares, which will be welcomed by pottery lovers. Worthington & Co.'s "Banner Library" is a new series of standard novels in inexpen-sive form. First in the list is "My Good Friend," by Aholphe Belot, a bright story of modern fashionable French life. Houghton & Mifflin's portrait catalogue for 1889-90 is already out. It is a pamphlet of 132 pages, and contains forty-nine portraits of authors, and is an attractive as well as useful book of reference.

Captain King's new story, which will appear in the October issue of the Cosmopolitan, marks an increase in the size of that periodical by twenty-four pages. Dodd, Mead & Co. is the latest publishing-house to issue a literary bulletin. It is called New Publications.

General Weather Conditions.

FRIDAY, Sept. 20, 7 P. M. PRESSURE.—The barometers have fallen to low everywhere; the highest, only 29.90, is reported from Minnesota. The low area. which was central this morning over Lake Huron, has moved eastward, and is cen tral to-night in northern New York, with 29.34 at Oswego. The low area in the Northwest remained stationary, with the lowest reported, 29.34, at Calgary, B. A.

TEMPERATURE.—Seventy and above is reported from the Mississippi valley south of Cairo, Ill.; Missouri, Nebraska and Dakota, westward, and in Alabama and Florida; 60 and below from Maryland, West Virginia, northern Ohio, northern Indiana, Wisconsin and Minnesota, northward; less than 50 from Michigan and the upper lakes. Precipitation.—Heavy rain is reported from Buffalo, N. Y. (0.94); light rains from Maryland, West Virginia, Ohio, eastern Michigan and the western part of Lake Superior, northeastward. Foolbardy Trip of Two Noblemen. Winniped, Man., Sept. 20.—Count De Sainville and Hon. Mr. Everest, two En-glish noblemen, who left here five or six months ago with the object of going further north than Lord Lonsdale, have been heard from, the letters having been written over two months ago, and being dated from Fort Chippewayan. They had a rough ex-perience on Lake Athabasca, and during a storm were driven on extensive mud deposits. When the water receded their boats were left in the mud two miles from open water, and through this they had to carry all their supplies and portage their boats. When they started they intended pushing north to Point Barrow, the most northerly point of Alaska, and resting for some time with the United States marines, who are now establishing a relief station there. They greatly feared hostile Esquimaux, whom they would be unable to avoid, but said if they succeeded in getting by them they would have little difficulty in reaching Point Barrow by the middle of August ing Point Barrow by the middle of August. They have not yet reached there, and it is feared that harm has befallen them. It is likely that the Hudson Bay Company will send out a search party from Fort Chippe-

Gold Discovered in New Jersey. NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 20 .- The village of Irvington, three miles from this city, has a gold-discovery boom, James Murray, a laborer, while excavating on the road, found a ledge of rock containing shining particles. Samples of the rock, taken to Glorieux refinery, were found to contain gold. Judging by the samples, the rock is said to be worth $60 a ton. More of the ledge will be unearthed at once, and placed in the hands of an assayer.

"Several months ago my hair com-menced falling out, and in a few weeks

my head was almost bald. I tried man remedies, but they did no good. I finally bought a bottle of Ayer's Hair Vigor. and, after using only a part of the contents, my head was covered with a heavy growth of hair. I recommend your preparation as the best in the world."-T. Munday, Sharon Grove, Ky. "I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for a number of years, and it has always given me satisfaction. It is an excellent dressing, prevents the hair from turning gray, insures its vigorous growth, and keeps the scalp white and clean."— Mary A. Jackson, Salem, Mass.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for promoting the growth of the hair, and think it unequaled. For restoring the hair to its original color, and for a dressing, it cannot be surpassed."—Mrs. Geo. La Fever, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

"Ayer's Hair Vigor is a most excel-lent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a cure for dandruff."—J. W. Bowen, Editor "Enquirer," McArthur, Ohio.

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for the past two years, and found it all it is represented to be. It restores the naturai color to gray hair, causes the hair to grow freely, and keeps it soft and pliant."—Mrs. M. V. Day, Cohoes. N. Y. "My father, at about the age of fifty, lost all the hair from the top of his head.
After one month's trial of Ayer's Hair
Vigor the hair began coming, and, in three mouths, he had a fine growth of hair of the natural color."-P. J. Cullen,
